RAPPER RADRIC DAVIS AKA 'GUCCI MANE' PLEADS GUILTY TO BATTERY
Will serve six months in jail, pay a $3,000 fine, as well as restitution to victim

DeKalb County Solicitor-General Sherry Boston today announced that RADRIC DAVIS aka 'Gucci Mane' has pleaded guilty to intentionally causing physical harm to a woman by pushing her out of a moving vehicle. He pleaded guilty to two counts of Battery, two counts of Reckless Conduct, and one count of Disorderly Conduct.

DeKalb County State Court Judge Eleanor Ross sentenced DAVIS to three years to serve six months in custody and the remainder on probation during which time he is required to pay a $3,000 fine; to attend and complete 12 weeks of anger management classes; and is forbidden to contact the victim; and must pay $5,090.54 in restitution to the victim for her medical bills. He was taken into custody and remains at the DeKalb County Jail.

"I am pleased that justice was achieved for the victim because this defendant's behavior showed a willful disregard for a woman's personal safety," said Solicitor-General Boston. "This Office takes these charges seriously and believes that no person is above the laws that protect the citizens of DeKalb County."
